So what is the post method, curl or something else? Posting to web pages, that is my guess. It looks like the more direct way of doing it when using Java. I am trying to do exactly that using the requests library and the urllib library. I'm getting totally different URLs if I use the library and as seen in my code above, I'm going wrong. The urllib library just says that the post field is a form post and the form data for each element is a tuple of name name and value. The post method doesn't have the same name, however and I can't figure out how to use that import requests from bs4 import BeautifulSoup e24f408de9
