clone by the end of the month, in time for the first leg of The Big Man's LEGO event, so I might as well get the first one done. A few pics from the instruction book (I suppose since I'm missing the stickers and stickers would have been preferred by me). He's a bit different from the one from the Visual Commision Series. I think with the body being matte black. Newton is a different colour from the others. It might be just him, but I think he was the first set that had some sort of new color scheme. I don't know why they did this, it's a bit of a waste since no one that's the same height would be able to ride him. The instruction book seems to have some inconsistency with the color of the body. It says it's white but the other pictures you could see online say he's white. They probably swapped the color of the body and the body is now matte black. The instruction book doesn't actually list anything about the new theme. It only states that new color schemes will be revealed at the end of May. It also says that the steps to set up the AT-TE will be released at the end of May, but all the new color schemes were revealed at the end of May. Big Man's LEGO event I'd like to know more about the event. Does it include all of it? I'm a bit concerned as I live in South Africa. I've made an account at face book since my first EVH site don't have any friends and so I can't comment there.##
