is the final report of the ENA Ex Post Facto investigation. Peggy Mahoney will be out of the office for the next 2 weeks. Kristina Mordaunt in ENA Risk will be contacting the main contacts for several of these proposals. These discussions will hopefully be followed up by bid data requests. I'll be out of the office tomorrow and on vacation through Friday, Oct. 12th. Thanks Shona Wilson Director, Global Risk Operations X39123Q: What is the correct way to add a C# class member to an XML element, based on a condition (using XmlSerializer)? Is it as simple as doing this? [XmlElement(IsRequired = false)] public class MyClass { [XmlElement(ElementName = "Foo")] public List FooList { get; set; } // etc } A: Not quite that simple. You must put XmlElementAttribute on one or more elements in the class, and a XmlArrayItemAttribute on the List. You also need to use XmlArrayItemAttribute.IsNullable = false and XmlArrayItemAttribute.Items.ElementName = "Foo" to specify the member to use. Try this: [XmlRoot(ElementName = "MyClass")] public class MyClass { [XmlElement(ElementName = "Foo")] public List FooList { get; set; } // etc } A: [XmlRoot(ElementName = "MyClass")] public class MyClass { [XmlElement(ElementName = "Foo", IsNullable = false)] public List FooList { get;

Performance System Requirements ID Flow Premier Review: Free or cheap photo ID card templates? Free or cheap photo ID card templates? All in all, we rate ID Flow Premier as a satisfying and reputable photo ID card software, although it seems overpriced for the most part. We feel it should be available for a much lower price, but you can check its official website to see all the available discounts. The program is not bundled with a large number of features or templates, thus limiting its range of use, but it does have a pretty amazing editor. Despite the fact that it comes packed with a pretty basic installer, it does include many useful tutorials and comprehensive Help contents, thus ensuring that it is easy to use for both power and novice users. Publisher's Description ID Flow Premier is a software solution dedicated mostly to large enterprises, so that they can easily create photo ID cards for their employees. Simple

One of the earliest games to incorporate multiplayer with its simple and easy to follow mechanics. While it lacks the depth of games like Call of Duty and Halo, it is incredibly fun to play with friends, and since all the stats of your character are stored on a single server, you can play even if you don't have your friends or anybody else in your group with you. The good news is that this is an easy game to get started with. You can just go to and download the client to your device
