transient global amnesia: A new etiological classification. Transient global amnesia (TGA) is a brief period of transient memory impairment without other neurological symptomatology, and the cause is unknown. Intracerebral haemorrhage (ICH) or ischaemic events have been suggested to be causative of TGA. We examined the prevalence of carotid stenosis and the role of carotid artery dissection in TGA. The
