Crotchety Aging Dad Crotchety Aging Dad I hear a lot of complaints on this website about Boomers who are cranky. Now I've got one of my own. See if you can figure out which one. My son is getting married on Saturday. This is his third marriage and I'm not sure which one of his ex's they are marrying off to but I know exactly which one of his babies will be getting married. This is the crazy part. The other two ex's are not around and have not been for many years. I don't know why the hell they did that! When my son and his ex's were growing up their parents had many many fights and fights all the time. It seemed like once or twice a week someone was gone and then a few months later they were back and wanting to get into some kind of fight. The ex's (sisters) used to say our parents would stay in bed together and stare at each other all day. Who knows what it was all about. They had lots of secrets. None of us know why. Every time we got in a fight my parents would say they were "just kids" and I guess they thought it was so we wouldn't call them out for causing the fights. Ha! My son and the ex's all grew up. The fights went away. What really bothers me is that I have no idea what happened between them. My son goes out with the ex's and spends weekends with them. My son says the ex's have come out of it with a lifetime of bad relationships. I agree with him. Of course, what did we do right? My son was 43 when I first met him. I've been divorced from his Dad since he was nine. I've been remarried twice and I'm not getting married again. I don't care how old I am, I'm having trouble thinking about getting married again. I'm not ready for that kind of relationship. I have my one son and he is almost 27. When my son was a little kid, he used to ask his Daddy, "Daddy
