Rar Password : 132022 10:22Q: Pass argument to decorator function I was trying to call a function in my controller from server side. I want to bind some data coming from client to my decorator function. my controller let data ={projectId: {{projectId}},}; @controller('/projects', data) function (reg, res) { ... } projectId in data is equal to 8. When I bind projectId, my server is giving 8 for projectId and not 8 as it should be? I want to bind more data to decorator function without using global variables. A: Your controller function accepts data as an argument, so you need to pass the data object to the function, like this: @controller('/projects', { projectId: 8 }) function (req, res) { ... } Or, since you already have it in data, just use it directly: @controller('/projects', data.projectId) function (req, res) { ... } This invention relates generally to vehicular tire pressure monitoring systems, and more particularly to a system and method for determining erroneous transmission of tire pressure data received by a tire pressure monitoring receiver. Wireless tire pressure monitoring systems typically include a radio frequency (RF) module and a tire pressure monitoring receiver that receives pressure data from an RF module. The tire pressure monitoring receiver communicates the pressure data received from the RF module to a display that provides a display of the tire pressure information. Further, this tire pressure information can be provided to a vehicle operator via the display. The RF module typically includes a battery and an antenna and the battery is the primary source of power of the tire pressure monitoring system. Typically, the battery is recharged by a vehicle alternator that is wired to a battery post of a vehicle battery. When the battery is recharged by the alternator, the tire pressure monitoring system is typically shut off and turned on to receive pressure data when the vehicle operator turns the ignition key to a vehicle ignition position. An example tire pressure monitoring system is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No
