The most popular editions of Photoshop are those that have a Paintbrush tool, a Magic Wand tool, and a Brush tool. A beginner can, however, use Photoshop just fine without any of those features. Exploring Photoshop's Tools In Photoshop, the tools are divided into groups called layers. You use the tools in your images as you would use physical paper with a pencil or pen or paintbrush — that is, to draw, modify, or erase parts of an image. The tools, shown in Figure 3-2, enable you to change the appearance of existing portions of your picture. You can mask off portions of your image and thus remove parts of your picture for editing, or you can add other parts of your image to a picture. A half-inch-thick piece of paper can easily be turned into a half-inch-thick wall with a pencil or pen. You can do the same thing with your images in Photoshop. I explain how the tools work in this section. Figure 3-2: The Pen tool enables you to create selections, modify colors, and apply a selection to a group of pixels. The Photoshop Environment When you choose a tool, you select from a set of tools, or they appear on the screen. The tools are divided into the following groups (see Figure 3-3): Pencil (P): A one-dimensional line tool that enables you to draw, erase, select, and move pixels. You can get a perfect grip on the pixels that you want to change. The Pen tool draws a black line, and the edge of a selection is a light line. When you move the line, the pixels under the line are selected. Brush (B): A two-dimensional line tool that enables you to paint, color, and modify pixels. It has several methods: Move, Smart Paint, Color, Gradient, and Pattern. The tool lets you change the brush size, hardness, color, or pattern. The Brush tool creates pixel magic that touches any object on your canvas that you want to edit, enabling you to change the color, add texture, or make other changes. For example, when you use the Brush tool to paint on some flowers in your image, that flower turns pink. Lasso (L): A freehand line tool that enables you to select any object within an image with a smooth, continuous curve. Picking an area with a lasso produces a boundary around selected pixels

Upstate New York (NY) Congresswoman Claudia Tenney is calling for an impeachment inquiry to start a probe into possible collusion between President Donald Trump and the Obama administration. Tenney previously called for Trump's impeachment after the arrest of her son-in-law, Matthew Mowers, last year. Mowers, a first officer with the Federal Aviation Administration, has been charged with making false statements to investigators after being involved in a single vehicle crash that left another man injured in Westchester County. In her latest comments on the subject of Trump's impeachment, Tenney wrote on Twitter that: "Obama's Collusion with the Russians is worse than Watergate. @realDonaldTrump & his Administration's Collusion with the Russians is also being investigated!" "Let's get to the facts," she continued. "We need to find out if the Obama administration illegally unmasked Trump Transition officials. That is a Federal crime – The unmasking must stop!" Tenney is not the only New York Republican to call for Trump's impeachment. She is joined by three other fellow GOP congresswoman — Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez from New York, Lois Frankel from Brooklyn and Dina Titus from Nevada. An impeachment inquiry would be initiated by the House Judiciary Committee. However, Tenney's fellow GOP congressmen would likely oppose the idea. Trump and his administration were also recently hit with a subpoena to appear before the House Intelligence Committee on their Russian collusion probe. But Trump rejected the suggestion that he testify, and instead issued the subpoena in the form of a presidential Twitter rant. The White House just issued a subpoena for Don McGahn to testify before Congress. The case is a made in a Clown Court, there is no reason John should testify as he is giving excellent legal advice. — Sean Hannity (@seanhannity) May 20, 2019 Earlier in May, Tenney spoke out against the idea of impeaching Trump. "Democrats are now accusing the administration and/or President Trump of illegal or unconstitutional behavior. There is no substance to these charges," she said. "The president has the right to request investigations by the DOJ and Congress. His request is being handled in a proper and legal manner." She later continued: "The outrage over these accusations is clear to see. People must get beyond this childish

AUSTIN - Have the best of both worlds - an affordable home and a top-of-the-line travel trailer. In between is the unique and versatile model from Airstream, a name synonymous with quality and dependability. Now, a property sale on the lake means another home for a toad. And on the lake are no frogs. NEW YORK (Reuters) - Medicare for All would save $2 trillion, mostly through price and administrative cuts, over 10 years, a new study of the plan by the Center for American Progress think-tank found. FILE PHOTO: People look at electronic devices displayed for sale on the opening day of the Consumer Electronics Show, or CES, in Las Vegas, Nevada January 7, 2014. REUTERS/Mike Blake/File Photo The bipartisan plan, which would replace the U.S. healthcare system with a single government-run plan by eliminating private insurers, has gained popularity among Democratic presidential candidates and many of their supporters. It is different from a plan introduced in March by Senator Bernie Sanders, an independent from Vermont, who also supports eliminating private insurers, but envisions a more aggressive financing plan that would seek to reduce healthcare costs by taxing the wealthy. Private insurers and U.S. health providers did not provide data to support the claim, the study said. According to the report, the elimination of private insurers' premiums would reduce federal healthcare spending by $1.34 trillion, and allow the government to save $557 billion in administrative costs. A $490 billion efficiency gain could come from administrative savings at public insurers. CAP, founded by the former chairman of the U.S. Democratic Party, said the savings would more than pay for costs of Medicare for All. Its report estimated that the plan would cost $2.08 trillion in its first year, but also save $2.08 trillion over 10 years. CAP said the plan would cover everyone and be financed by a 21 percent payroll tax on households making more than $50,000 a year, a 4 percent income tax on those above $250,000
