Pregnant 'Downton Abbey' Actress Has Baby Out Of Hospitals INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Indiana woman has given birth to a baby girl at age 41 while pregnant with a surrogate, where she was born about a month premature, then had the baby transferred to a hospital to be treated for lung issues. Deirdre M. Scully-Hicks Deirdre M. Scully-Hicks, 41, of Marion, Ind., gave birth to her daughter on Dec. 19 in Marion and is recovering. The baby, named Madeline, arrived at Riley Hospital for Children at the age of 26 weeks and was born premature. She was also born with a congenital heart defect and will be monitored for other conditions. She was transferred to the Children's Hospital of Indianapolis after a week, where she was treated for lung problems. It's not clear why Scully-Hicks became pregnant with the girl, who is the first child for Scully-Hicks and her partner, Steven Hicks, an Indianapolis building contractor. The couple says they haven't discussed if they would want to adopt the child and is leaving the decision up to the child's mother. Deirdre and Steven Hicks, 41, of Indianapolis, left their home Wednesday with their daughter, Madeline. (Photo by Joy L. Biddle/IndyStar) The couple, who have been together for eight years, are open about their surrogate-assisted pregnancy. They say they have loved making Madeline, and they are committed to supporting the baby as she grows and to her mother Deirdre. "We're honestly very blessed," Steven Hicks said. "We're in a situation where we get to raise a kid together, which has never happened before. We'll make this work." Deirdre Scully-Hicks is a graduate of Ball State University. The former cheerleader of Muncie High School went to Indiana University and obtained an art degree.
